Devastating Beauty

On Friday, my hope died.
The sky wept itself dark the ground broke apart and all creation cried for the bloodied innocence hammered into a tree.

There were whispers
of a torn curtain, but they didn't reach my ears or mend my mangled heart or stem the bitter tears as we took the body down.

On Saturday we grieved, hiding from the troops whom we'd once believed would be overthrown
by the carpenter's boy, who had preached and fed and healed, and was now dead.

But then on Sunday –
The devastating beauty of that Sunday –
when time and space
were blown out of shape and angels wrapped in electric grace
rolled the impossible away

'He is not here'
they proclaimed
for glory had risen
our failings were forgiven and the rules of life and death were rewritten as an empty tomb declared,
'Love is alive.'
